

Value Village

Value Village is a thrift store. At Value Village, shoppers can find used clothing, shoes, jewelry, toys, books, DVDs, furniture and many things for the house.

Value Village gets these things from non-profit groups. People donate things they don't need to a non-profit group. The non-profit group sells them to Value Village to make money.

Value Village also gets things from people who go to the store. Value Village gives the money it gets for those things to non-profit groups, too. Value Village pays more than 160 non-profit groups more than $117 million each year.

Questions:

1. What is Value Village?
2. What things can shoppers find at a Value Village store?
3. Where does Value Village get its things to sell?
 - a)
 - b)
4. How many non-profit groups does Value Village give money to?
5. How much does Value Village pay non-profit groups every year?
6. What things do you think are good to buy at a Value Village store?